LESS MIXED BATHING AT MUNICIPAL POOLS

Summer Schedule Admits Both Sexes but Once a Week.

The summer swimming schedule at the municipal pools announced yesterday by Supt. W. J. Brunner permits mixed bathing on only one day of the week—Sunday—and then only for adults.

Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday the pools are to be given over to the exclusive use of women and girls, while men and boys may take their turns Tuesday, Thursday and Friday. The new swimming schedule goes into effect at once, Mr. Brunner announced. Pools will be open daily from 1 a. m. to 7 p. m. No person will be permitted to remain in the water longer than an hour and a half.

On Sundays only women over 18 years and men over 21 will be permitted to swim together. Men will be required to show their war registration cards, if requested, as proof of their age.

"If anyone fails to obey the rule," said Mr. Brunner, "the bathers' clothing will be removed from the locker and another person given his place. There will be no comforters and walking around."

Women will not be permitted to remove their rubber caps until outside of the enclosure surrounding the pool. Only 150 persons will be allowed in the water at one time.

TROOPERS TO PARADE FOR SANITARY UNIT

Section of Third D. C. Regiment Will March for Recruits.

With a view to stimulating interest in the sanitary unit of the Third Regiment, D. C. N. G., a parade of the members of the organization will pass through the streets of the city this afternoon. It will be under the command of Maj. Charles R. White, chief medical officer of the regiment.

The troopers will march from Fort Myer to Fifteenth and F streets, east on F street to Seventh, south to Pennsylvania avenue and west back to Fort Myer. The sanitary unit will have nine additional recruits. In order to facilitate the medical examination of such men as apply for enlistment, Dr. Charles G. White, examining officer, will be at the station at 147 F street next Monday.

The enlistment of Thomas A. Tighe, 115 Harvard street northwest, as a private in the Marine Corps, makes the third brother to enter that branch of the service. The other two are William P. and George I. Tighe, both of whom have served as drummers in the Marine Corps for a number of years.

The members of the Coast Artillery Company of the District Guard, will leave tomorrow morning for Fort Washington, where they will spend the day receiving instruction in the handling of the big coast defense guns there. They will assemble Sunday morning at 7 o'clock and return to the city Sunday night.

LOCAL BOY WOUNDED

Though every man of us had fixed bayonets, there was no need to bring them into play. Approximately 200 yards from our objective D Company halted for the barrage to lift.

Cut Barbed Wire.

Though still attached to the M. O. section I had a special job to perform. I went out ahead to cut barbed wire in order that D Company might have a clear path ahead. Not until we reached this point, as before stated, had any barbed wire been confronted. Now quite a network lay before us. So I went out with several others and proceeded to cut away our barrier.

When the time for the barrage to lift arrived, we were away. Another 100 yards and there was more barbed wire. Concealed in the obstruction were a party of the enemy, whom we put to flight on discovery. Approximately twenty-five yards the other side of the wire we received our first set-back. An enemy machine gun was playing on us. But we were not to be stopped. There was just about seventy-five yards more to go to reach our goal. With the bullets flying around us we rushed a few yards, and took cover. In whatever was offered us in the way of shell holes and craters. By this gradual process, we worked our way up to within close quarters.

Won Objective.

All of a sudden, Lieut. Ponton, our platoon commander—and he is a regular little hero—jumped to his feet and letting out a yell, rushed straight for the gun. His example was followed by every one. Sergeant Cameron was close on the heels of the officer and I was right behind the sergeant. The German gunner must have lost his nerve when he saw us coming. At a rate he deserted his gun.

To make a long story short we obtained our objective with very few casualties and began the work of consolidating the captured position. During the night snow fell, and it was quite cold. Just before midnight, we detected a large party of the enemy creeping upon us, evidently intent on taking us by surprise. We soon arranged their tune, greeting them with machine gun and rifle fire. We had now rejoined the gun crew. We were to have been relieved the first night, but our O. C. volunteered to hold the position another twenty-four hours. He extended back over forty miles, so we had gained an advantage in observation which the enemy had held.

Tuesday the enemy retaliated more severely. High explosive shells were chiefly used. Our casualties began to swell. When I "stood to" on Tuesday night alongside the gun, I was tired out and hungry. We had had no sleep since Saturday night and our rations consisted of hard tack and bully beef. But there was not a grumble from any one. About 8 p. m. the enemy's shell fire was intense. Among those to fall was Lieut. Ponton. It was about time for our relief to come in.

Hit by Shell.

We were taking turns standing by the gun. There was always one man on duty no matter how severe the fire. I had no sooner relieved Alderson than a high-explosive shell dropped almost on top of me and I was crushed to earth. But for my steel helmet there would have been no possible escape from death. As it is I marvel that I lived in that shower of shrapnel. Though severely wounded my condition is not dangerous. I have two wounds in my back, wounds in both arms, badly lacerated. My ears will be disfigure for life, and I will carry a scar on my neck to the grave. I can console myself in knowing it might have been worse.

I arrived at Brook War Hospital Sunday night. I am getting the best of treatment.

We'll think this is quite a narrative for a sick man. Would like to write more, but am getting tired. My love to all.

Your sincere friend,

"SPIRIT OF '76" INSPIRES.

One of the features of the patriotic demonstration given at the Monument grounds in honor of the Confederate veterans Thursday night was the "Spirit of '76," which evoked much favorable comment yesterday.

Maj. Abram P. Springsteen represented the drummer man; W. E. Garlick, Jr., the drummer boy; George R. Latta, the fife; and J. T. West, the flag-bearer.

The Continental Congress and the entire program was staged under the auspices of the Department of the Interior.

'UNCLE JOE,' FIDDLERS AND BOXER ENTERTAIN

Present Melodious Program with Punch at Press Club.

An old Confederate fiddler, "Uncle Joe" Cannon and Light-weight Champion Benny Leonard were the performers at the Press Club last night. The champion knocked a few spots off a boxing partner.

Leonard, the famous story of the time he went to Valley Forge. And then "Uncle Joe" Cannon, of Montgomery County, Va., who won the gold medal the time the 600 old-time fiddlers met at Norfolk, greased up his fiddle and started on "Old Dan Tucker." The newspapermen liked his fiddling so much that he played "Good Old Rebel," "Sweet Eveleen," "A Little More Chide," and the rest of the old-time tunes before he knew it.

Maj. Ellis had his old friend, Col. Tom Booker, of Virginia, along, and Col. Tom had his trusty banjo and when they struck up the old steamboat songs, and the old army songs they just wouldn't let the two old vets go home.

MARINES ENTERTAINED.

Douglas M. R. Church was host last night to the U. S. Marines, in the choral building, from 8 to 10 p. m. at the street northeast. Dr. C. C. McLean, the pastor, delivered an address.

DAILY BLOWS AIMED AT OLD DEMON RUM

Senator Gore Comes Forth with the Latest Knockout Punches.

Very few days pass in Congress now that some one does not aim a blow at the justly celebrated Old Demon Rum.

Senator Gore has some striking new amendments that will curtail the liquor traffic if adopted.

It provides that after the passage of the bill allowing the President to ship in preference to others, it shall be unlawful for "any common carrier or any other person or corporation to ship, receive for shipment, transport, deliver, or receive in interstate commerce or in commerce among the several States" distilled spirits except when they have been "withdrawn from bond free of tax under existing law, or shall have been withdrawn for medicinal purposes."

Besides this, Senator Gore wishes to make the tax on "grain, cereals, and other edible products and materials" used in whiskey manufacture liable to a tax of 50 per cent. At his request the Senate Finance Committee recently taxed these food products 20, but now he desires this tax tripled. He leaves the same tax of 5 per cent imposed upon molasses, sirups, etc., entering into whiskey-making.

The Senate Finance Committee, now completing its revision of the war revenue bill, devoted its whole day to the discussion of the Gore amendments. No action was taken. The committee still hopes to complete the bill by this evening.

PRESIDENT ATTENDS KEITH'S.

(INCORPORATED)

Stores Everywhere—One Near Your Home—Careful buying is the first step toward economy. If you want all sorts of service you've got to pay for it. Some people delude themselves into the idea that service is "free," and then wonder when the monthly grocery bill comes in why the cost of living is so high and where the man got the nerve to charge such robber prices.

Everybody who works around a grocery store gets paid for doing so, and the consumer is the one who pays the bill. The time is coming—and, in our opinion, very soon—when there will be just two kinds of grocery stores—one where you can get any sort of service you want, if you can pay for it; the other a store where all expensive service is eliminated and the business reduced to a strictly cash-over-the-counter proposition.

Our experience with eighty-six (86) stores, with a strictly cash, no delivery, no telephone, or other service, proves to us very conclusively that we are serving our myriads of patrons in the way they prefer to be served under conditions as at present existing. New arrivals in Washington are urged to investigate at our nearest store.
